ATTELL AND MORAN, WORLD'S BEST FEATHERS, IN FIGHT FOR THE TITLE

How Evening World's Expert Viewed the Abilities of Greatest Little Fighting Men of England and America.

ATTELL against Moran: a fighter against a fighter; a boxer against a boxer. That's the way the featherweight championship fight to-night dopes out.

There's not the slightest doubt in the world that this new English scrapper can fight. That's his game. And he has a lot of cleverness that he has picked up from studying the methods of successful American fighters. He has a cool, clear head. He won't get rattled and lose whatever fighting ability he takes into the ring with him. AtteU is also cool—the coolest proposition in fighting shoes seen in the ring since Kid McCoy stepped out. So this fight will be a pure test of ability. The best man will win. There is no danger of a fluke or a doubtful decision—unless it is so close that Jim Jeffries' honest opinion differs from that of some of the spectators.

BE ATTELL is every kind of a fighter. He's a rough-houser or a pretty, skillful boxer. He can stand and slug or dance in and out like a shadow. He has a kick in either hand that drops his man when it lands on the right spot. He can fight long, take a lead on points, and extend himself just enough to make sure of the decision. He has as clear judgment in the excitement and hurry of the fight as an ordinary man has when he sits down and thinks it all over next day. In fact, AtteU is every kind of champion, and if this Moran boy from England can take his measure for a down-and-out club suit, he's welcome to all the applause thrown at him.

AtteU has a record as long as your arm. At first he won a dozen or two of fights with clean knockouts. He won thirty-five straight before his string was broken by a loss to Benny Vander. Then, beginning to go against the best men of his weight, he learned more ring cleverness and began winning safely on decisions. He did this until he found himself growing unpopular. People thought of him as a pretty boxer with no real fighting ability—a wasp without a sting.

Then AtteU reformed. He publicly announced that he was going to win with knockouts again and cut out the taping. In the first fight he made good by knocking out Jimmy Walsh in eight rounds. Then he knocked out Harry Baker in eight. His latest effort resulted in a knockout for Freddy Weeks in four rounds. And Weeks was one of the most promising sluggers among the younger featherweights.

MORAN has a long record, too. He has won about four-fifths of his fights with clean knockouts. He has only had four fights in America.

Although bested, Doherty put up a good fight, and several times landed solid right-hand swinges on Glover's face. Glover showed his class by carrying the fourth round, but he was a long time to get going when Doherty came rushing at him. In the fifth and sixth rounds Glover reached Doherty's jaw several times with short right jabs which dazed him. Doherty's perfect condition helped him considerably in his fight with Glover. He showed no signs of being tired from the punishment after the contest was over.

The preliminaries were also all good bouts, and the club members enjoyed the show immensely.

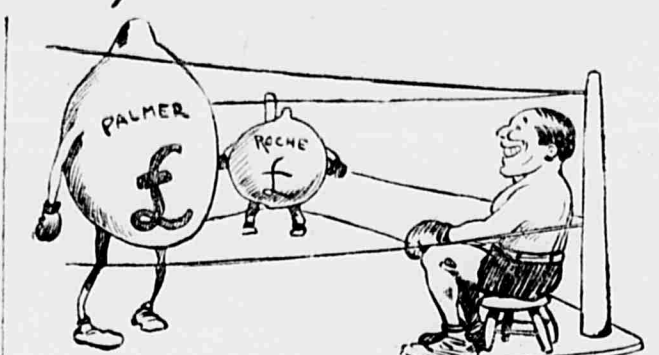

ROCHESTER HOPES TO MAKE SUCCESS OF PIN TOURNEY

BOWLERS who believed in the ability of the pin tourney were a big part of the plan for the annual event of the National Bowling Association. The association has been successful in making the pin tourney a success in the past.

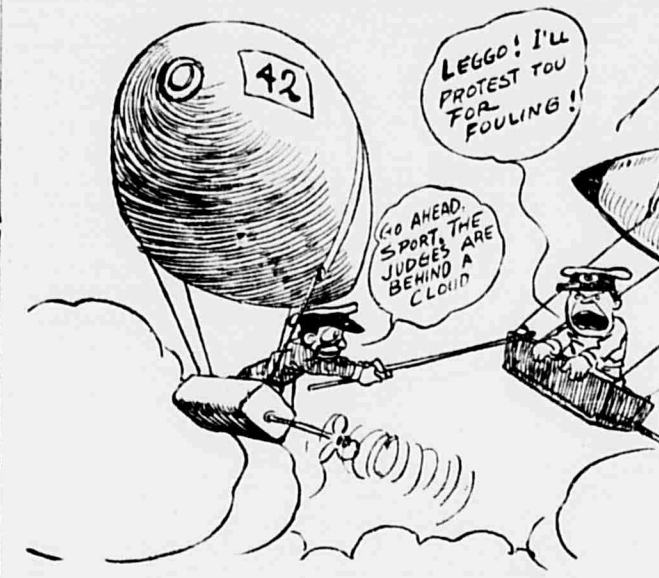

For Rochester successfully to handle an event of this importance was a big undertaking after the manner in which Philadelphia fell down on the Atlantic City tournament last season. Sixteen new allies had to be furnished and a new building provided suitable to accommodate the crowds. Major Gage, who also represents the Genesee Amateur Bowling Club, is the only one who is now in good shape and will make every minute count. The tourney will be a success.

"As regards the entries," continues Major Gage, "much interest is being shown through this section of the State in the tournament, and the outlook is bright for a large representation throughout the Western section. The Buffalo clubs are already making their plans and we expect at least fifteen teams from there. Syracuse, Auburn, Elmira, Binghamton, Utica, Baldwinsville, Oswego, Erie and Dunkirk will be well represented by teams, as well as Amsterdam, Schenectady, Troy and Albany.

"Rochester is making its preparations for the affair, and at least twenty-five to thirty teams will be represented. This is a larger representation than New
